NUTRITION GUIDE

PLAN (A)

WELCOME

This meal plan is designed to help you burn fat and build muscle. As a Balanced Macros meal plan, you will be eating the appropriate portions of lean proteins, healthy fats, and carbohydrates in each meal. We focus on eating whole foods and reducing/eliminating any added sugar. You will combat sugar cravings by having fruit all throughout your day.

This meal plan is meant to give you both structure and flexibility. While you do have a weekly menu, you also have healthy swap options to add variety to your meals if you wish. We will practice intermittent fasting throughout this challenge. We suggest fasting for only 12 to 14 hours at a time. As women, we do not want to go longer than this in consideration for our hormones.

Each morning of this challenge will start with a protein shake. This will not only promote muscle growth as we fuel our workouts but also stabilize our blood sugar. Following this, our next two meals will be larger portions. The first of these meals will include more carbs, while later in the day we will have a lower carb meal. Our last meal of the day will be a smaller snack.

At the bottom of each menu, you will see the healthy swap options available for that meal. Simply click on this swap that you are looking for and you will be brought to the recipe.

During your program, we also suggest avoiding alcohol, as this can hinder your goals. Aim to drink about one gallon of water per day.

The TRU Training system has worked and brought results for thousands of women in the past, but the key to success is consistency. We have aimed to serve all types of people in this program, those who thrive on structure and those who crave variety. You may follow the meal plan exactly, or you may utilize the swap options. Both will bring results, but we suggest not steering off of this plan during the program.

HOW TO FOLLOW

Example Schedule:

Fast from 8pm-10am

Recommended Workout Timing: 7:00 - 9:00 am (or first thing in the morning)*

10:00 am - Morning Shake

1:00 pm - Meal 1

5:00 pm - Meal 2

7:30 pm - Meal 3

*While not everyone will be able to workout first thing in the morning, we do recommend this if possible to set the tone for your day. You will want to consume your morning shake within an hour after your workout ends. If you workout in the afternoon or evening, this is fine. The most important thing is to not miss workouts. This is far more important than timing. Simply consume your next meal within an hour. This timing assists in the muscle building process, which is key to body recomposition (burning fat/building muscle).

FAQ

Can I have a cheat meal once/week?

The best way to see results in this program is to follow it as written. However, if you are feeling too rigid and have a really serious craving, we suggest rather than risking a binge meal to simply give yourself a very small portion. Only do this if the mental fight becomes distracting towards your goals.

Do I have to follow the Intermittent Fasting?

No, you do not have to fast if you don't want to or cannot do so for health reasons. You may also opt to shorten the fast, such as a 10-hour fast.

What if I can't eat everything in one meal?

If your body is full, stop eating. You can save the rest for a snack if you wish.

What if I'm still hungry?

Listen to your body. If you are still hungry, you may increase your portion sizes as needed. If this happens for several days or a whole week, this may be a sign that you need to increase to a higher calorie meal plan. We do not recommend adding food sources that are not already part of that meal.
